

Monday, April 10, 2017 2:30 PM

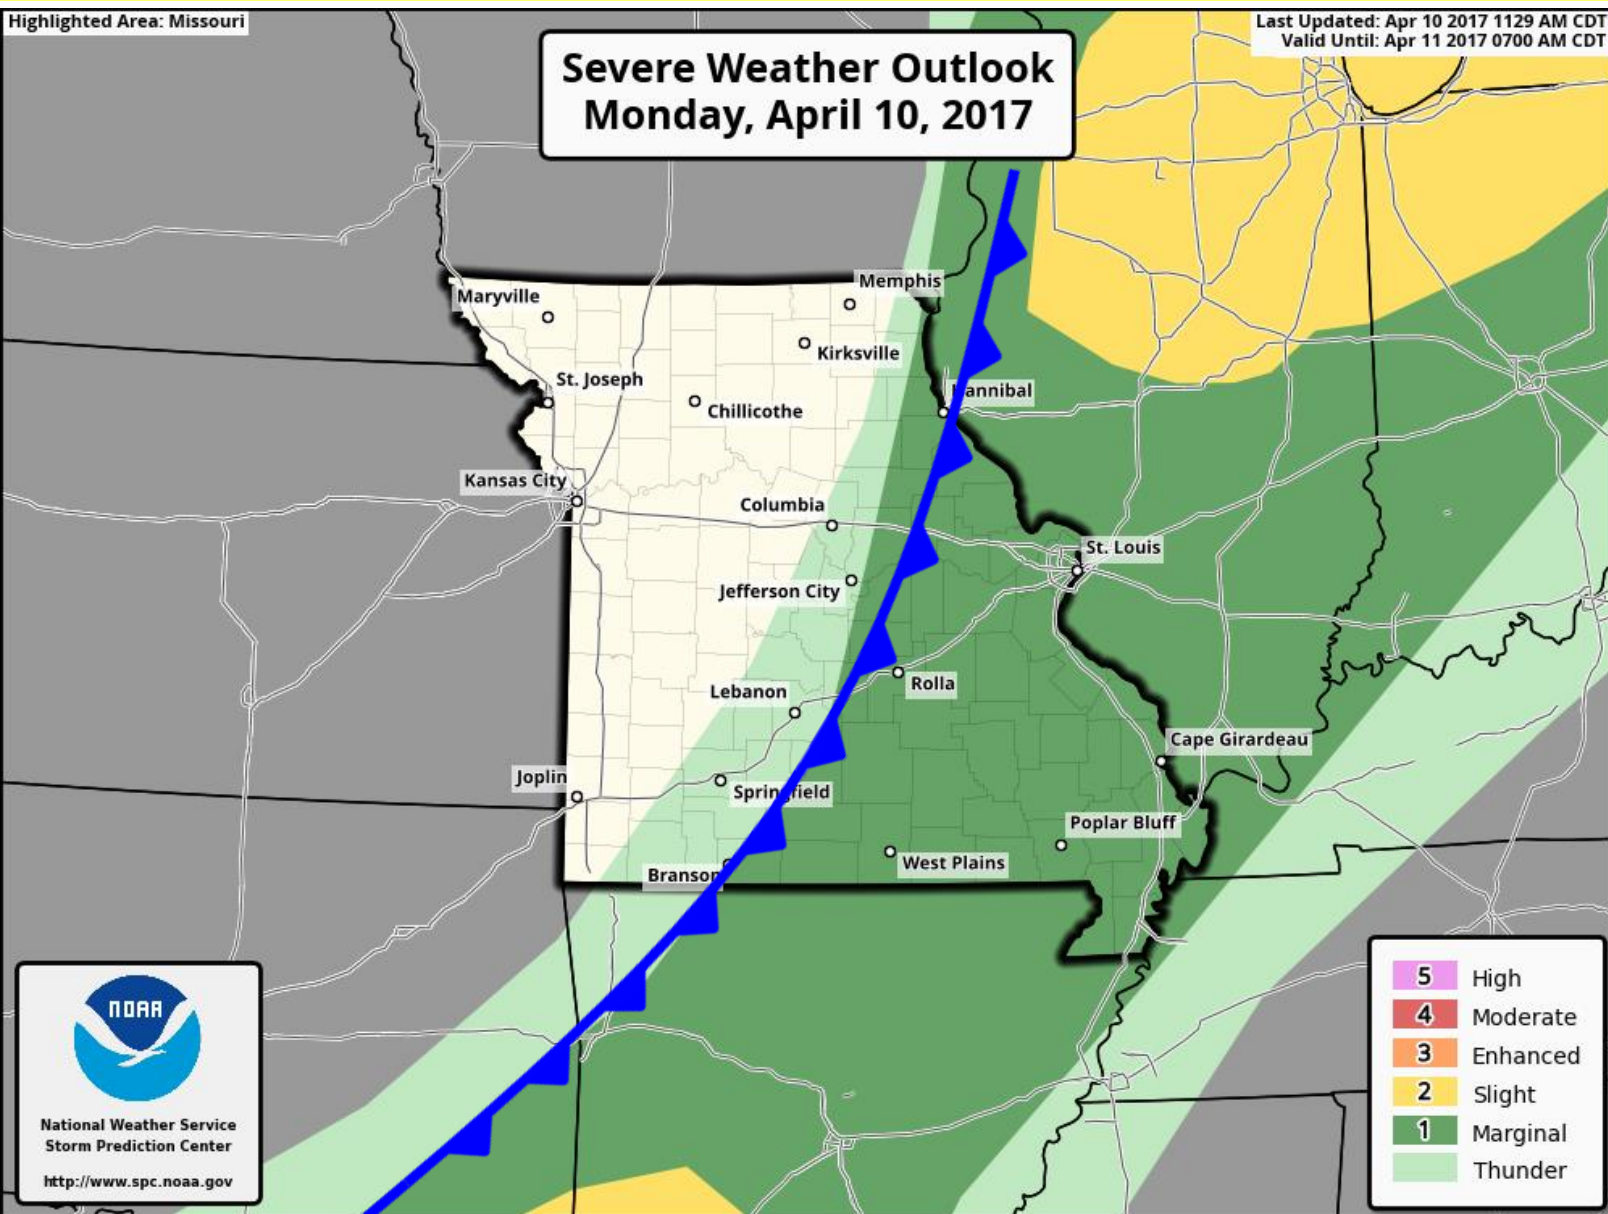

Experimental Situation Report

Isolated Strong Storms Possible This Afternoon

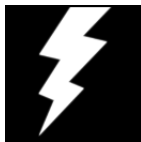

Highlighted Area: Missouri

Severe Weather Outlook Monday, April 10, 2017

Last Updated: Apr 10 2017 1129 AM CDT
Valid Until: Apr 11 2017 0700 AM CDT

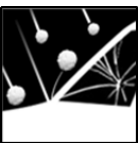

Wind gusts of 40 to 50 mph with the stronger storms.

A few lightning strikes

Areas mainly south and east of a Salem to Gainesville line.

Hail of dime to nickel size for the stronger storms.

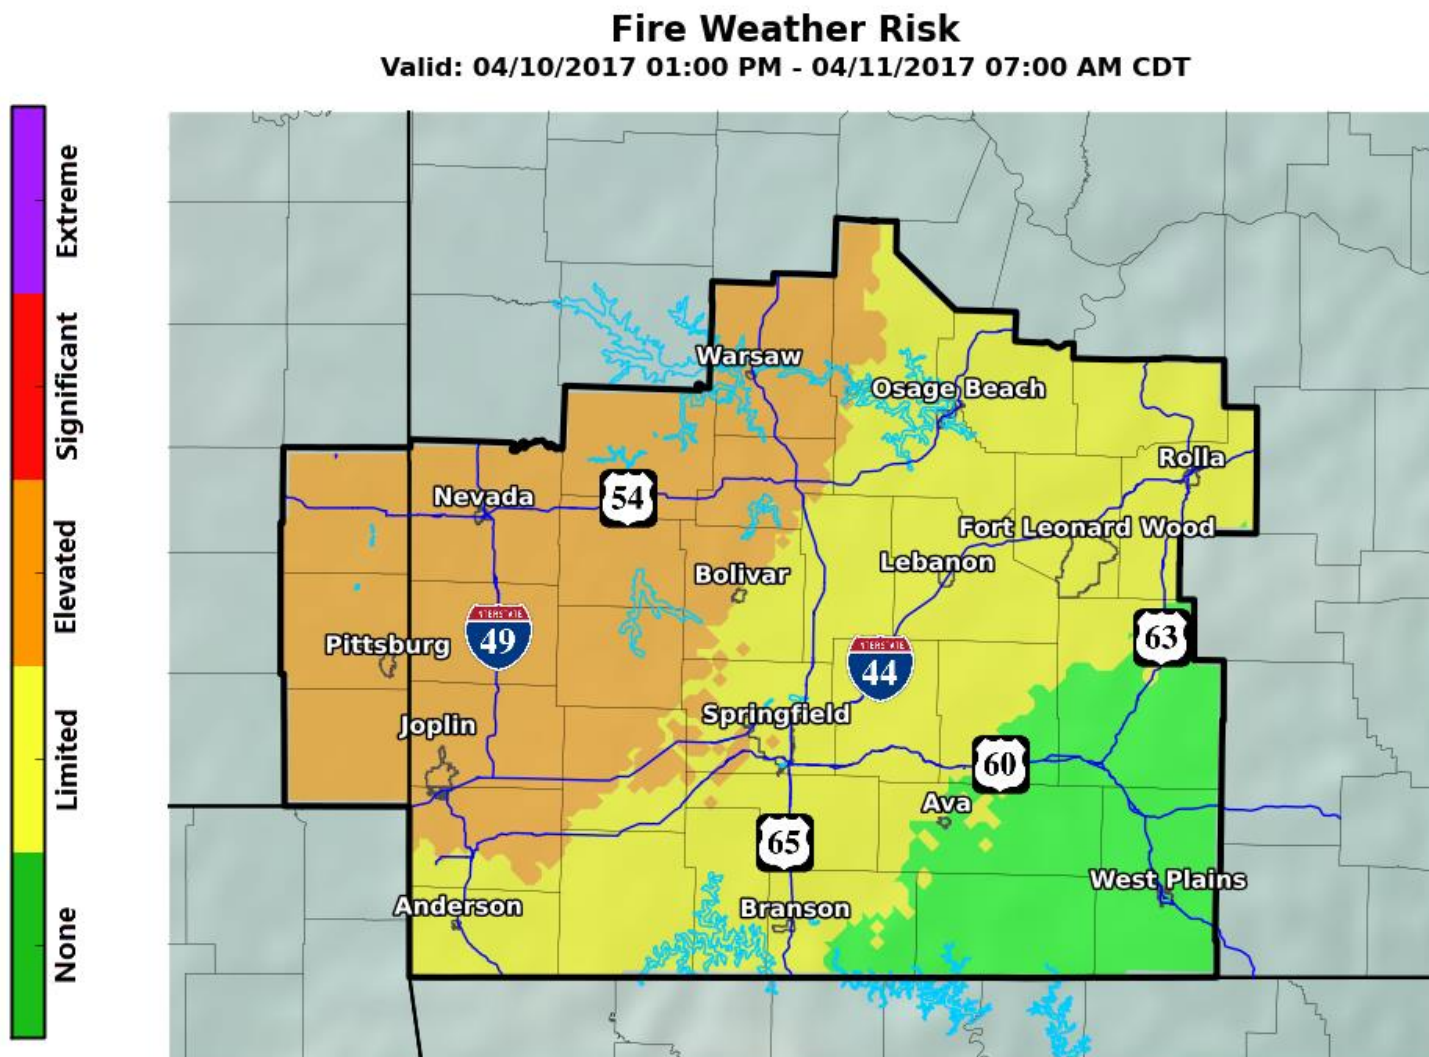

This afternoon and early evening.

Monday, April 10, 2017 2:30 PM

Experimental Situation Report

Elevated Fire Weather Conditions This Afternoon

Locally elevated fire weather conditions will develop this afternoon, generally northwest of an Osage Beach to Neosho line as drier air moves in behind a cold front today. Humidity values will drop to around 30 to 35 percent with gusty northwest winds up to 20 mph.

Monday, April 10, 2017 2:30 PM

Experimental Situation Report

For the Latest Weather Information Check for Updates to these Decision Support Services:

Enhanced Hazardous Weather Outlook
(Updated at least twice a day)

<http://www.weather.gov/sgf/ehwo>

Situation Report
(Updated at least twice a day)

<http://www.weather.gov/sgf/sitrep>

@NWSSpringfield

NWS Springfield

Building a Weather-Ready Nation